

Graduate Study Opportunity

Integrating Indigenous and Scientific Knowledges for Environmental Sustainability

Skywoman - used with the kind permission of the artist, Bruce King (Oneida)

Are you interested in the integration of indigenous and scientific knowledges in environmental research?

Do you want a STEM career in service to land and culture?

The Center for Native Peoples and the Environment at the State University of New York's College of Environmental Science & Forestry is recruiting students for graduate study in diverse environmental sciences from ecology, sustainability, conservation biology to restoration and environmental engineering. As a member of the Sloan Indigenous Graduate Partnership, the program provides funding for full tuition and stipends for Native American students pursuing MS and PhD degrees. Applications are open so please join us in this exciting initiative.

Additional information can be found online at <https://www.esf.edu/nativepeoples> or contact Dr. Robin Wall Kimmerer at rkimmer@esf.edu

Follow Us:

